Definite Plans For Expansion Considered

Mother Simplicia Announces New Program

Mother M. Simplicia, president of St. Teresa's college, has announced that plans for the erection of a new building, and for a program of general expansion that will make of St. Teresa's a fully accredited four year college are definitely under consideration. That the building contemplated will be completed and ready for occupancy next September, when the college will begin its seventy-fifth school year, is the goal of all concerned.

Additions to Faculty

Several changes in and additions to the faculty were made this year. Mother M. Simplicia, former superior at the Academy of Our Lady, Peoria, Illinois, and at the Sacred Heart high school, Indianapolis, replaced Mother M. Marcella, president of St. Teresa's during the past six years. Miss Wanda Ercha, graduate of the De Paul university school of music, Chicago, is conductor of orchestra, and teacher of theory. Sister Marie de Lourdes, former professor of voice at Fontbonne college, St. Louis, is teaching choral courses, and French in the Academy. Sister Anna Marie of the St. Francis de Sales high school, Denver, replaced Sister Agnes Frances as teacher of English in the Academy. Sister Agnes Frances is on the staff at St. Paul's high school, Negaunee, Michigan. Sister Marie Felicite, former supervisor of the parochial schools taught in St. Louis by the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet, is teacher of history in the Academy.

Conductor of St. Teresa's Orchestra

WANDA ERCHA, who was graduated this year from De Paul University School of Music. She was an outstanding member of the conducting class of Richard Czerwonky, noted violinist and conductor, with whom she also studied violin at both Bush Conservatory and De Paul. Miss Ercha conducted a brilliant performance of Die Meistersingers.

The Most Reverend Edwin V. O'Hara, D.D.

The Most Reverend Edwin V. O'Hara, D.D., celebrates the Mass of the Holy Ghost for the faculty and the students of St. Teresa's college and academy.

Atonement Dance Revives Freshmen

"And fun was had by all", adequately describes the Atonement Dance at Meadow Lake Country Club Monday, October 16. The "crushed" freshman regained their spirits in step with Pat Loftus' Aristocrats.

Until the always-laters arrived Pat warmed the hearts with merry melodies, prior to the program dances.

At intermission the majority sipped a hurried coke in the restaurant downstairs.

After another round of partner exchanging for the last half of the dance, the orchestra played "Mother Beloved" and then bowed out with its final theme. Then the newly accepted freshman and the sophisticated sophomores, with their dates, made the usual scramble for coats and cars.

Bishop O'Hara Officially Opens Seventy-Fourth Year at College

With the Most Reverend Edwin V. O'Hara, D.D., as celebrant of the Mass to obtain the grace of the Holy Ghost, St. Teresa's college and academy held the seventy-fourth official opening of the school year, Monday, October 9, in the college auditorium. The Very Reverend Monsignor Thomas B. McDonald, pastor of the Visitation church, was a guest of honor at the Mass. The bishop was assisted by the Reverend Edward M. Owens, assistant at the Visitation church. The Reverend Thomas E. Donnelly, professor of religion at the college, led the students in the Missa Recitata, a dialog reading of the Mass.

After the Mass, His Excellency in a brief address stressed the importance of the students' part in education. He said: "I am pleased to be here to celebrate Holy Mass for you in order to bring the blessing of God the Holy Ghost upon you in your role as students. I like to have you respond to the Mass through the Missa Recitata. In the 'Orationes Fratres' the celebrant says: 'Pray, Brethren, that my sacrifice and yours, etc.'—this indicates that all take part in the celebration of the Mass. Christ offers Himself in the Mass, but all the baptized present, members of His Mystical Body, offer the Holy Sacrifice with Him.

"I am happy, too, in thinking of the future of St. Teresa's as a four year college, and I am hoping that as the years go on you will have more reason to be proud of St. Teresa's. The Sisters of St. Joseph are noted throughout the country for the colleges they conduct. Your contribution to the college of St. Teresa is intelligence, good will, and good conduct. You are the ones who build the future of the college by your scholarship and by your integrity of life. Strive to avoid hasty judgments. Seek to know the truth. With regard to integrity of character, our profession and action should harmonize. Greed and conduct should harmonize."

"Quints" From St. Teresa's College And From Rockhurst Form Cast; A Delightful Three-Act Comedy

Monday, November 20, at 8:15 p. m., a "Romantic Young Lady" will chase a hat across the stage of St. Teresa's college auditorium, and as a result of that simple act, she will fall in love, ask for a job, fall out of love, and finally marry the man, a young Spanish novelist, whose hat she chased. Kathleen Aylward, as the "Romantic Young Lady," will head the cast of five St. Teresa's college and five Rockhurst college students that will present this three act comedy by G. Martinez Sierra, under the direction of Frances Feist, professor of dramatics. The English version of the comedy is by Helen and Harley Granville-Barker.

This play, produced with great success at the Neighborhood Playhouse, New York, is one of the most charming of modern comedies. It concerns the adventures of a romantic young Spanish girl with a popular novelist, whose hat blows into her room one evening during a storm. She goes to the novelist's office, not knowing he is the famous man, and applies for a position. On learning who he is, she indignantly walks out of his office and returns home. The novelist, who is gracefully trying to eradicate the illusions from the heart of the girl, manages in the end to find the best kind of romance in his love for her. The play radiates a delightful romance of quaint charm and genuine interest.

Streaming California Bound With Kathryn Batliner

Westward ho! and the train pulled out, California bound! Just a couple of girls fortified by several boxes of candy and many admonitions from well-meaning but over cautious parents, off on their first long train trip.

As the sun came over the mountain at four o'clock in the morning of the second day, I caught my first, yawning glimpse of California in Pasadena just as we were passing a famed California orange grove, which really opened my eyes.

The train ride was wonderful and over all too soon. Having caught sight of the newly erected, really magnificent Los Angeles Union Station, we realized our trouble with California braggarts would soon begin. We had been duly warned of these Californians who always speak of their "land of sunshine" in the superlative, that everything is spoken of as "most", "biggest" or "best". The depot is Spanish in construction with a picturesque side court, equipped with the most comfortable lawn equipment.

The first time I went to Graumen's Chinese Theatre, where the footprints of the distinguished are made in the cement, I walked around for almost an hour trying to locate a footprint into which my shoe would fit. I bet the Stars suffer the night they step into that soft cement, for I know they can't comfortably wear shoes as small as most of those prints!

I was astonished at the simplicity of the homes of some of the famous movie idols. Though the homes in Beverly Hills are gorgeous, those outside are disappointing. Many of the stars' residences are merely ordinary houses in the middle of a block of homes, similar to our better residential district. Maybe I was suffering from illusions but I expected every actor and actress to live in a "dream-house", apart from everyone else, with a private swimming pool and a tennis court.

Though it registered over one hundred, we went ice-skating and roasted. Most of the skaters wore shorts on an outdoor rink and almost swimming suits and looked comical compared with skaters here, bundled in ski suits and sweaters.

The quaint mission of San Juan Capistrano was one of the most interesting sights. This is the mission where the swallows return each year on St. Joseph's day. It is so peaceful, sweetly beautiful, and flooded with holiness that it seems to shed this atmosphere about its visitors and to make them wish to stay there always.

Making a potpourri of my likes and dislikes, this emerges: I loved the abundant flowers, especially oleanders, and the palms, but I disliked the cloudy, starless nights. I thought the weather delightful, but didn't like the women's unconventional, sloppy way of dressing. The ocean was impressive but the deep copper tan of most Californians was disgusting. I loved the big markets (offering many free samples) but I detested avocados. I admired the two universities but detested their concrete tennis courts. I was frightened by the speed and recklessness of motorists but appreciative of their courtesy to pedestrians. I was appalled by the great number of convertibles and surprised not to see rain.

But don't misunderstand—all in all the West is grand.

TO CHRIST UNIVERSAL KING

Oh Christ Jesus! I acknowledge Thee as universal King. All that has been made has been created for Thee. Exercise on me all Thy rights.

I renew my baptismal promises in renouncing Satan, his works and pomps, and I promise to live as a good Christian, and I pledge myself especially to render triumphant in as much as I am able the rights of God and of Thy Church.

Divine Heart of Jesus, I offer Thee my humble actions to obtain the recognition of Thy sacred Royalty by all hearts so that the REIGN OF THY PEACE may be established throughout the whole universe.

Amen.

Through the Subway, About New York and To The Fair

By ELIZABETH WOODS

On my first trip to the East I really did things up right, and since I usually do things the hard way, a subway ride was my first experience. There's really no kidding when those people dash in and fall. Some are fortunate enough to land on a seat, while others just land. Also in the line of transportation is the Fifth Avenue bus. This is the answer to a greenhorn's prayer. While riding along Riverside Drive, I saw the George Washington bridge and Grant's tomb, both interesting spectacles.

One of my most thrilling experiences was my trip to West Point. Of course this was not hard to take, especially since there were forty Royal Canadian Mounties on the same boat. It was no less exciting to see "Flirtation Walk", the mess hall, the library, as well as the Catholic and Non-Catholic chapels. The Catholic chapel was truly inspiring in its simplicity and charm; the Non-Catholic in its splendor and magnificence.

And of course no faithful visitor could miss the Rockefeller center, or the Battery, or the strange creatures at the Aquarium, most commonly called fish, or the inevitable Wall Street, and the City Hall.

I'm just another one who was speechless at the beauty and size of St. Patrick's Cathedral. Although it's not the only church of great beauty, it's the only one which really impressed me.

One of the grandest people I've ever met is Mayor La Guardia. He's a very short, chubby gentleman with an excellent sense of humor. I attended a newspaper rally at which both he and Heywood Broun were featured speakers.

To get back to less intriguing subjects, namely, the noisiest and most crowded spots, Coney Island and Times Square. If you will just relax and resign yourself to fate, you will get along splendidly. Just push along with others. Never try to hurry. While I'm giving out advice don't be too shy to ask any one of those smilin' Irishmen anything you want to know. I was bashful once and ended up in Brooklyn. Never again!!!

I have never seen so many children, all ages. It seems so strange that in such a large city with so many parks that children are forced to play in the streets. At the end of an exhausting day of watching the children, a weary mother literally piles her three or four little ones into a buggy, and takes them home.

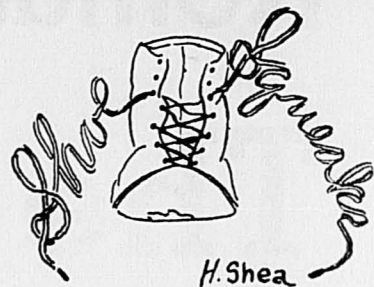

Let's see, I'm down to plays now. Oh, yes! Tallulah Bankhead in the "Little Foxes". It was really an excellent performance and for a moment actually brought out the Bernhardt in me. This was the extent of my play-going.

Now for the Fair. If you have a great deal of time, comfortable shoes, and a bench in sight, the Fair is the place for you to go. The majority of exhibits and buildings were all very impressive. In the daytime the ultra-modern buildings seemed a little grotesque to me. But on the other hand, the night lights brought out their effects. The most important exhibits were those of Foreign Countries. General Motors and the Housing Project were equally educational and interesting.

Two of the best sights at the Fair are the "Aquacade" and the "Hot Mikado". The "Lagoon of Nations" was lighted brilliantly every night with lights and fire works. This display could be seen from almost any point on the grounds. Just between us, I think the New York World's Fair is "tops".

I started home by way of Washington, D. C., where I spent just a day. In this short time, I visited the museum sections at the White House, the Capitol with its many chambers, the Lincoln Memorial, the Mint, Senate House, Congressional Library, the Treasury and last but not least, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, where I left my fingerprints.

After two months of exciting experiences, I was glad to get home; for home was never like that!!!

The Tip-Off

The Academy students have caught the hockey fever this year—something new for a change. Everyone is playing it, and if this weather keeps up we should develop some good hockey teams.

One, two, three, hockey sticks clash, and watch Mary Ann Crooks, Pat Donagan and Pat Miller take that ball down the field. Those "Sops" sure have a fine crop of enthusiastic hockey players.

While on the subject of hockey the half-backs and full-backs also deserve mention. Carol Burns and Janice Neenan are in there blocking that ball whenever it comes too near.

Hockey, soccer, baseball and volleyball—variety enough to serve M'lady's taste. It's sport with a capital S, fun by the bushels, and a few bruises for good measure, beckoning you to enter this year's Olympics of St. Teresa's.

How are you to become a member of our exclusive, much contested Olympics? Lend the Teresian an eye (better make it two—the better to comprehend, my dear) and Miss Reardon an ear (with the other one stopped up) and you shall know:

- (1) Come out for the team of your choice on the date appointed, which will be determined later.
- 2) Have a try-out—be good and make the second team; be better and make the first.

"A sport a girl!" is our model for this year, so Miss Sport La Sport come out and meet your fellow team mates.

The A. A.

"A. A." stands for Athletic Association of which you will be hearing much, and you may be a much-begrudged member.

The Athletic Association is going to take care of the inter-class games, other competitive games, and the horseback riding division. Sounds alluring, doesn't it? Wait, watch, and listen, the completed plans will soon be announced.

Crusaders From Forty-Seven States Meet In Washington

By MARY ELIZABETH ARNOLD

As the official delegates of the St. Teresa's college unit of the Catholic Students Mission Crusade, Mary Elizabeth Arnold, sophomore, attended the Eleventh National Convention of the C.S.M.C., held at the Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C., August 23-25. Mary Elizabeth came back a Paladin Leader fully prepared for leadership in Mission Activities and with many new ideas.

She stated that the object of the convention was "To bring the personal viewpoints of missionaries to Crusaders and thereby to develop vocations."

The meeting opened with a message from the Holy Father, Pope Pius XII, and with his blessing. The speakers were a brilliant array of missionaries from home and foreign missions, who devoted their lives to the spiritual and temporal welfare of all races.

An interesting traditional Missionary Exposition set up in a wing of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception portrayed missionary orders and mission-aid organizations

Denver's "Western Hospitality" Charms Lucille Smith; "C'mon Gang" Too

The evening of June 4, 1939 found three very happy people waiting anxiously at the Union Station for the 9:45 train bound for Denver. These excited travelers were none other than our own college Sodality moderator, Sister Adeline, Sister Agnes Francis, former Sodality moderator of St. Teresa's academy, and I. There we stood—three impatient people waiting for the train to take us to the Summer School of Catholic Action.

The sessions did not begin until June 12, but we left a week earlier in order to explore that section of the country, "out where the West begins". We saw all the mountains, parks, lakes, and other places of outstanding beauty that we possibly could during the first week.

The first session of the S.S.C.A. began Monday, June 12. Appropriately the day started with Holy Mass at 8:30 a. m. in the Lincoln Room of the Shirley-Savoy Hotel. All the sessions were held at this hotel.

The first classes began at 9:15 a. m. These consisted of talks delivered by priests of the Queen's Work staff on "What's Needed for Catholic Action?"

The first day the Reverend Daniel A. Lord, S.J., spoke on "Good Lay Leaders". Tuesday morning was the formal opening Mass celebrated at the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception. Monsignor Matthew McMenamin was the celebrant. After Mass we returned to the hotel to hear the Reverend G. A. McDonald, S.J., speak on "Priestly Direction". Wednesday morning the Reverend J. R. Lyons, S.J., explained "A Clear Program". Thursday came a talk on "Adequate Publicity" by that priest who makes everybody laugh, the Reverend Edward Dowling, S.J.

The Reverend Herbert Walker, S.J., conducted the sessions Friday morning. He gave the class a list of worth-while books. The last day the Reverend A. J. Heeg, S.J., delivered a most interesting lecture on "Spiritual Motivations".

Each delegate was given a card on which to write his name, the school represented, and its location. In this way the students learned something about each other, and thus became acquainted more quickly. It was really something worth seeing, to watch five hundred delegates get acquainted.

The second classes began at 10:00 a.m. Since these were electives, Sister Adeline and I attended the college organization meeting conducted by that outstanding leader of Catholic Action, Father Lord. The Class took the form of a round table, the students taking part in the discussion.

At 11:00 a. m. we attended the class in parliamentary law, presided over by Father Walker. The fact that this was one of the liveliest classes of the school was due to the over enthusiasm of several delegates from Los Angeles. Those fourteen-year old boys from the Pacific coast certainly know their parliamentary law. They even confused Father Walker.

Lunch period began at 11:15 a.m. Classes were resumed at 1:15 p.m. with general session by Father Lord. Each day Father gave a talk on our Blessed Mother under the general heading of "Mary's Place in Modern Life." To me this session was the most uplifting and inspiring of all.

Athletics for School Spirit

Miss Pauline Reardon, director of athletics at St. Teresa's college and academy, presided over a meeting of the students of the academy, held recently to arouse school spirit in athletics.

The assembly decided to elect an officer from each of the classes of the academy. They chose Jeanne Neenan, president; Pat Schild, vice-president; Mary Brosnahan, secretary; Louise Baty, treasurer. The members of the association discussed the various group activities to be introduced into the academy this year. They include horse-back riding, weiner roasts, steak fries, and ice skating.

The second elective was held at 2:00 p. m. I attended the class of consumer's cooperatives taught by Father McDonald.

My third elective, at 3:00 p. m., was parish recreation leadership conducted by Father Nell, the man responsible for all the entertainment at the S.S.C.A. This class consisted of folk-dances and games. There was many a laugh when all began dancing about the room to the tune of "Pop Goes the Weasel".

Every night at 7:30 p. m. there was a recreational program. Monday night open house was held at Regis and Loretto Heights colleges. Tuesday night Father Nell gave his party in the Empire Room of the hotel. The highlight of the evening: Father Lord doing the Lambeth Walk.

Wednesday night there was a trip to the mountains carefully planned and supervised by students of St. Francis De Sales High School under the direction of the Sodality moderator, Sister Anna Marie. Thursday was amateur night. Friday night the big social event of the S.S.C.A., was held, the dance in the Lincoln Room. It began with a grand march to the music of "Christ our King." Later in the evening came the beautiful waltz to "Mother Beloved". At the end all the dancers knelt for the act of consecration and night prayers led by Father Lord.

One of the greatest thrills of the convention was meeting and talking with Father Lord. He enjoys every minute of his time spent in talking with, and kidding young people. His favorite expression in "C'mon Gang!"

When I left the S.S.C.A. and Denver Sunday following the last class, I realized that I would be leaving a group of grand people who certainly gave me a sample of western hospitality during those two short weeks. I am already looking forward to another S.S.C.A. next summer.

"C'mon Gang". Let's go!

Moor Wind

Whoooo! This is the new "wind" reporter who will "blow" her best for you.

What obstinate senior insists that the past tense of sting is stang? She's a prominent member of the Teresian staff. Incidentally, she's one of the unfortunate seniors who failed to read "Ivanhoe" in previous years. Far be it from me to carry tales, though.

Disregarding my last statement, I wish to add that congratulations are in order for one of our illustrious seniors. She has at last abandoned her "ten o'clock scholarish" attitude.

With all of our meetings being interrupted with sudden "I moves," "seconds" and "amend," no doubt we'll learn a great deal about the essentials of Parliamentary law. Previous question!

Nothing can be more inspiring than a few flies when one is deeply engrossed in editorial work. You should have seen us the other day chasing those flighty creatures between phrases.

News From Alaska

Did you know that Eskimos have never heard of igloos? According to Father Hubbard, noted Jesuit explorer of the Far North, the above fact is true. Recently, while speaking briefly at St. Teresa's, the famous priest said that when photographers from a motion picture company were taking shots of the Alaskan Eskimos, they had to furnish igloos and then teach the Eskimos how to get in and out of them. In colorful terse manner, Father Hubbard recounted many interesting and perilous adventures encountered while exploring the Far North. The audience received Father Hubbard enthusiastically. A number of the students from St. Teresa's College and Academy heard Father's lecture and saw the movies shown by him at the Municipal Auditorium the following day.

Let's steal a glance at the sporty gal as she jaunts to the football game, steak fry, midget-auto races, etc.

If she wears anything on her tresses, it will be a perky bow or a snap brim hat with a feather to lend color.

Her skirt—a flared, belted gabardine—will be topped by a plaid blouse, featuring long sleeves, or a Sloppy Joe sweater. Incidentally, she won't be considered too forward, this season, if she dons her sweater backwards and with elbowed sleeves.

Hear that? It's her loud jacket of fireman, or legion red! If the lassie isn't allergic to such shouting hues, she may content herself with a hooded, chunky chinchilla.

When the weather becomes the envy of "sunny Californians" this miss will be cozy in a fitted sport coat, a rum-brown chinchilla—just like I'll sister's—or that old stand-by, the polo. Are those white fur mittens engulfing her ten fingers?

If it's too chilly for angora anklets, no doubt, she'll cheer for the home team in woolen knee-length socks. With their entrance, dresses are rapidly rushing above the knee.

On her tootsies, you'll see low-heeled shoes with walled toes. From here, it looks like the saddle oxford will be around all through the winter.

Ooh! It's beginning to sprinkle! She's scampering home to get her plaid, hooded raincoat.

St. Teresa's Academy Elects Officers

With a view of securing "seasoned" officials to guide them safely through the last year of high school, the seniors of St. Teresa's academy held their class elections for 1939-40 last May. The officers chosen were: Joan Wagner, president; Kathleen Ryan, vice-president; Jo Anne Hickey, secretary; Elizabeth Woods, treasurer.

Shortly after the opening of school, the juniors elected the following class officers: Mary Ann Mueller, president; Mattie Pat Campbell, vice-president; Flora Bye Riley, secretary; Catherine Halpin, treasurer.

The sophomores chose for the year: Hildegard Bernreiter, president; Cathleen Soden, vice-president; Marianne Dierks, secretary; Gloria Nigro, treasurer.

Led by Patricia Cavanaugh, president; Virginia Gerhardt, vice-president; Rosalie Dunn, secretary; Mary Margaret Fennesy, treasurer, the freshman class is on its way to becoming the pride of St. Teresa's.

St. Teresa's Sodality Unit Reorganized

Received Thanks Holy Father for Spiritual Bouquet

St. Teresa's Sodality unit reorganized recently. The new officers are: Lucille Smith, prefect; Mary K. Olson, vice-prefect; Bernadine Loftus, secretary; Mary Lu Reid, treasurer. Lois Romer and Kathleen O'Connor are the representatives to the Kansas City Sodality Union.

The first announcement made at the meeting concerned the message of thanks received from Our Holy Father for the spiritual bouquet sent him by the college sodalists last May. The bouquet was sent to His Holiness to congratulate him on his election and to wish him success. The message of gratitude reads:

"The Holy Father is sincerely thankful for the devoted message of good wishes and prayers presented to him and from his heart he sends the apostolic benediction."

Montini.

The meeting proceeded with explanations of three of the committees by Mary Elizabeth Arnold, Lois Romer and Mary Leona Doyle, chairmen of the Eucharistic, Apostolic, and Parish committees, respectively.

Ellen Holloway, chairman of the Catholic Literature committee, gave the sodalists a very useful bit of information concerning the vital question of U. S. neutrality. Miss Holloway suggested that the students send post cards to their senators and representatives in Congress saying that the Neutrality Act should remain unchanged.

Pat Haden, chairman of the social committee, explained the Character Tower to the sodalists.

A novel attraction was inaugurated at the annual Atonement Dance, October 16. The closing dance was a waltz played to the strains of "Mother Beloved." What could be more perfect than to have the beautiful melody of Our Mother's song humming in your ears to accompany you after the dance!

Academy Graduate Of 1938 Weds

The marriage of Miss Cecilia Bondon, St. Teresa's academy, '38, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Bondon, to Mr. Charles Binaggio was solemnized Saturday, September 30, at the Holy Rosary Church.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Anthony Bondon. She wore a lovely gown of crushed ivory velvet with a sweetheart neck and long sleeves. A crown of seeded pearls held her tulle veil which covered the five yard train of her gown. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and white orchids. Attending the bride were her cousins, the Misses Carolina and Santa Lococo. They wore dresses of turquoise and rose crushed velvet, fashioned on the order of the bride's. They carried colonial bouquets of pink roses and orchids.

After the reception the bride and groom left for California and a month's travel in the West.

Freshmen "Goo" To Sophomores, For Three Days

Climax Comes At Beginning As Sophomores Hold Court Here

For three dreary and seemingly endless days, October 11-13, the "freshies" of St. Teresa college began the day with, "Goo, Miss Sophomore, Goo". Attired in baby dresses without belts, the sweetest little bonnets, nary a bit of make-up, and lovely white stockings with the most charming blue bows, the freshies went cooing to their classes. But they were not alone—indeed, they had their dolls and rattles with them.

It was not uncommon to see the sophomores being entertained in the cafeteria by some one of these "babies"—and though mere "children" they sang or recited nursery rhymes with enviable poise.

But the three days were not the worst! The sophomores put the climax at the beginning by holding court in the gym the day before initiation proper. The poor "freshies" were accused outrageously. There was no one to plead their cause; not one word was said in their defense. And to top it all they had a prejudiced jury. Still they did not hang their heads; their spirits remained unbroken. With all the pep she could muster, each freshman "performed" her sentence.

The swishing of skirts, beribboned heads, rattles, and baby buggies will probably always remind these college freshmen of their sophomore "friends".
